

Merck Canada Statement on COVID-19

Confirmed cases of COVID-19 are increasing in Canada and Government bodies are beginning to implement measures to limit the spread of the outbreak.

During this outbreak, our company is prioritizing the safety of our employees and their families, our Canadian customers and patients, and limiting the spread of the disease, while also ensuring the continuity of supply of medicines and vaccines and caring for patients enrolled in clinical trials.

Today Merck Canada took the decision to stop face-to-face visits and Merck meetings with customers and stakeholders, including Animal Health customers, immediately for at least the next 2 weeks (until March 27th, inclusive). This decision will be reassessed regularly.

We will continue to support our customers through digital technologies when possible and thank them for their collaboration and understanding.
